FAMILY SEEKS REFUGE HERE: FROM DEKALB

Woman and Children
Come to Dixon
from Assault.

Sheriff Decker of DeKalb county, with two deputies were called to the home of Joe Ierath, who resides on the Lincoln Highway just east of the Ogle county line, yesterday afternoon where a riot was well under way with Ierath holding the fort against any intrusion. Across the street from the Ierath house in the Johnson farm home, Ierath, a foreigner had rounded up about 60 men and boys at the point of a shot gun and held them prisoner.

Mrs. Ierath with two of her three children had fled from their home when their lives were threatened and were picked up by tourists and taken to DeKalb, and Sheriff Decker of Sycaamore was notified. Ierath drove his family out of the house at the point of a gun at 3 p. m. and those who answered the cries of the woman and children were promptly marched into the Johnson house across the road and held at bay.

Sheriff Decker and two deputies arrived upon the scene about 6 o'clock last evening. The sheriff told the deputies to remain in the car and he started for the Johnson house to capture Ierath. The sheriff was unaware of the shot gun with which his prisoner was armed and his first intuition of the presence of the firearm, was evident when Ierath pointed the shot gun against the sheriff's stomach. Decker whipped the revolver from his pocket and at the same time grabbed the barrels of the shot gun as Ierath pulled the trigger. The sheriff's coat was torn from him and his right side burned from the powder as the gun exploded.

Ierath grappled with the sheriff and again recovered the fire arm and aiming another well, pointed in the direction of the sheriff. At this stage Deputy Sheriff Pease of Creston, who was in the waiting car, appeared upon the scene. Ierath and Sheriff Decker were grappling and Pease secured the shot gun and beat Ierath to unconsciousness. He was then handcuffed and taken to Sycaamore where he was confined in the county jail. A charge of assault with intent to commit murder will probably be lodged against him today.

Came to DeKalb
Mrs. Ierath and three children were taken to DeKalb and last night came to Dixon to be with relatives. She told the DeKalb county authorities that her husband had been drinking heavily for several days and had repeatedly threatened both herself and children. While in this condition, she said, he had threatened to shoot the entire family. The Ieraths are foreigners and it was with considerable difficulty that the officials were able to gather her story. She showed the police bruises and marks where she alleged that her husband had beaten her during his drunken brawl.

Headline Fighter Was a Poor Second

A fistie battle which raged for fully 25 minutes, attracted quite a crowd to the intersection of Ottawa avenue and Commercial alley yesterday afternoon. The antagonist in the battle, who heretofore, has rated as a head liner was thoroughly tamed before the final blow was struck, according to some of the spectators.

Sterling Legion is Defeated By Stars

The Sterling American Legion baseball team was defeated 11 to 2 by a picked team of League stars at Centoc yesterday afternoon in the celebration in honor of "Baby Doll" Jacobson of the St. Louis National League team. Pendergast and Denon, Sterling's pitchers, were both hit hard by the leaguers.

BABE RUTH FANS!—A strikeout was Babe Ruth's first contribution to 1922 world series history. On his first trip to the plate in the opening game, the big Home-Run King took three lusty swings at Pitcher Nehf's first three offerings without even getting a foul tip. This picture shows Ruth's third fruitless swing, with the ball safely in the mitt of Frank Snyder, Giant catcher. Umpire Klem is shown behind Snyder.

FAMILY QUARREL IN ERIE BRINGS DEATH TO FATHER-IN-LAW

Blair Denton, 29, is in Jail Charged with Murder.

A family quarrel, the result, it is said, of misunderstandings of several days, terminated fatally in Erie, Whiteside county, late Thursday afternoon when Blair Denton, aged 29, shot and killed his father-in-law, Ray Sibley, in the home of the latter's father, Henry Sibley. Two bullets from a 22 calibre long model Colt's revolver took effect in the victim's body, one to the left of the heart and the other over the left eye, and death was practically instantaneous.

The only witness to the shooting was Denton's wife, the daughter of the dead man. It is reported in Erie that early Thursday morning quarreled and that Sibley had ordered the young man to leave the house. At that time Mrs. Denton refused to let her husband go until "Grandma" (Mrs. Henry Sibley) came home. Denton, it is said, left the house and went to the business part of Erie. His wife last evening stated that when he left the house he had no revolver, and expressed the belief that he had obtained the weapon when he visited the business part of the city.

Returning to the Sibley house shortly before 4 o'clock he and the victim became involved in an argument in the presence of Mrs. Denton. Suddenly, it is reported, Denton drew the pistol and his wife rushed between him and her father, at the same time trying to wrest the revolver from him. His thrust her to one side and fired over her shoulder. The distracted wife then fled from the room and out of the house to summon aid, and as she was running through the gate in front of the house she said she heard a second shot.

Officers and others summoned by the woman found Denton in the house, making no effort to escape, and the body of the victim where he had fallen. Denton was taken to the Whiteside county jail in Morrison last evening by Sheriff Whitney, who refused to allow newspaper men to see him. The sheriff stated that the prisoner refused absolutely to discuss the shooting, and in fact would not talk about anything.

DO YOU KNOW?

(By Dixon Chamber of Commerce)

The Dixon Fruit Company was incorporated in 1916, and with F. F. Suter, Sterling, Ill., coming to Dixon and taking charge Oct. 1, 1917. Prior to his taking charge the company operated in several locations. Upon his assuming the management, purchase was made of the present location, 302-304 East River Street, and the interior of the building was entirely remodeled to suit the requirements of a first class Fruit and Vegetable House. Three large coolers were installed, also an elevator, and an overhead track with switches which carries bananas to the several banana cellars.

In 1917 this company had one salesman, one bookkeeper, and one horse and wagon delivery. At the present time they have three country salesmen, who cover the territory around Dixon within a radius of fifty miles, two city salesmen who work the city trade daily, two competent bookkeepers, four trucks, which are of the best.

In 1921 they made purchase of the property joining them on the east, which is now being leased to other parties, and which will be put into use as soon as space is needed. They have taken on the storage and transfer business, and have grown to such an extent that soon additional space will be required to take care of the former.

All goods such as bananas, oranges, potatoes, sweet potatoes, strawberries, etc., are bought direct from the growers, and distributed to home merchants, thus giving an advantage over smaller towns which do not enjoy this privilege.

Besides the general fruit line, they now handle extensively, condensed milk, flour, pancake flour, syrup, oleo, soap etc. It is their aim to handle only such lines as are quick turnovers, thereby frequently receiving fresh supplies. Prior to F. F. Suter accepting the management at Dixon, he had active charge of the Twin City Produce Company, Sterling, which at the time of his leaving was an established business, and which now is associated with the Dixon Fruit Company, splitting cars of fruits and vegetables with them, and thus disposing of them while fresh.

Troy Grove and Lee Center Meet Sunday

Troy Grove and Lee Center base ball teams will meet at Lee Center Sunday afternoon and a good game is anticipated. Ettlebrook and Edwards will be the visitors' battery while Percy and Bramell will perform for the home folks.

DIXON DELEGATES TO CONVENTION CHURCH OF CHRIST RETURN

Unusually Fine Meeting Held This Week at Rock Island.

The Dixon Christian church was represented at the state convention in Rock Island this week by the following: Mrs. A. S. Derr, Mrs. Fred McCordle, Mrs. J. E. Reagan, Mrs. C. C. Kost, Misses Bernice DeFrain, Gertrude Nesbit, Dorothy Hall and Rev. Cleaver and wife. They all returned last evening and report a splendid gathering, with about 300 delegates outside the Tri-Cities.

The principal items in the reports presented to the convention were: Through the State Missionary Society 38 missionary revivals had been held, with 1909 additions; three new churches had been reorganized, and 21 re-organized; 37 new buildings were dedicated, and 29 mission churches assisted through supplementary support of the pastor.

Secretary H. H. Peters, whose office is in Bloomington, reported the largest contributions for State Missionary Society, $25,238.52. A monthly state paper, "Mission Leaves," will be published from Chicago, in the interests of the State Missionary Society and the Women's missionary work.

Convention happenings of special interest were the addresses of Emory Rose of the Belgian Congo, who on behalf of the Congo missionaries received the new $10,000 launch, purchased by the Illinois Women's Missionary Society for use on the tributaries of the Congo River. A bequest of $1000 from the estate of Miss Betty Parker of Bloomington, will equip the cabin of this launch for medical dispensary work. The Convention sermons were by C. R. Oakley of Chicago and F. O. Fannon of Centralia. A sight-seeing trip through the Tri-Cities, terminating at the Black Hawk Watch Tower was a favor from the Chamber of Commerce.

Next year's work will include the campaign for $500,000 additional endowment for Eureka College instigated by the offer of the General Education Board to give one dollar for every two raised by the churches. This campaign will begin the 15th of October. A simultaneous evangelistic campaign for the entire state was set for next October-December. Four churches invited the 1923 convention.

ENGLISH LORD AND LADY WERE GENUINE FANS

Thoroughly Enjoyed
Yesterday's Big
Series Game.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
New York, Oct. 6.—Lord Mountbatten, cousin of King George and his best girl—Lady Mountbatten—went to the world series game yesterday, ate six ice cream cones and two bags of peanuts, drank four bottles of soda pop and rooted until hoarse for Babe Ruth and the Yankees.

The Mountbattens are democratic. They gossiped about the game with a crowd of young folks in an adjoining box and called in a soda pop boy to explain the game to them. They stopped the first ice cream cone vendor that came their way and bought and averaged one cone and a bottle of pop every three innings thereafter.

Pop Boy Taught Ten.
As Ruth walked down to first Lady Mountbatten laughed. "Atta boy Babe," and when the umpire called a strike on Pipp she said, "Totten" and the Lord joined in the chorus of "Take 'em out."

The soda pop boy they called in forgot all about his wars in looking at Lady Mountbatten. Under his tutelage her Ladyship and his Lordship—who were just Miss and Mr. to him—learned all the high points of the game rules. They soon came to know every one of the players as they strode to the plate and in their positions off.

"I wish," said Lady Mountbatten, after the game, "we could stay for the other games. But we're honeymooning, you know, and we're going inland a bit. When we come back east we're going to see some of the big football games. I hope they're as good as baseball."

Polo Grounds, N. Y., Oct. 6.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Giants plastered their ancient enemies with a coating of white wash this afternoon and won their second victory over the American League champions by a score of three to nothing. "Deacon" John Scott, resurrected and rejuvenated after all the major league clubs had regarded his pitching arm as ruined and needing repair, stood out there on the hurling hill and made the Yankees look foolish. He had speed, galore mixed in with a fine curve. Hoyt pitched a loose game for the Yankees. The story:

DEKALB PAPER IS STRONG FOR JOHN P. DEVINE

Says His Retirement Would Be Calamity for District.

The DeKalb Chronicle of recent date had the following editorial concerning the representatives' fight in this district:

The Chronicle, under the present management has always been Republican, with an occasional exception, when the good of the commonwealth and the G. O. P. itself, demanded a change.

One of these occasional exceptions was when the marvelous workings of our wonderful primary law caused eight out of a possible nine nominees in the senatorial district to be from the city of Sterling or its environs. Then, as will be remembered, The Chronicle was foremost in its advocacy of the candidacy of Burr Smiley, as an independent for the lower house and Mr. Smiley has been kind enough to say that The Chronicle did a whole lot towards his election.

Another instance is in the present campaign, when an effort is being made, in the interest of a local political, personal machine, to retire John Devine, a Democrat, from the lower house by electing three Republicans.

This, we believe, is inimical to the best interests of the district and of Illinois. John Devine is the leading Democrat in his party in Illinois and the biggest figure that this district sends down to Springfield.

We believe that it would be a calamity for the voters of the 35th to desert him and that the Chronicle strongly favors his candidacy, both because of his ability and because it is time for the selfish machine, mentioned, to have its toadskin trimmed.

With the Democrats plumping three votes for Devine and a number of Republicans of this county resenting the action of the senatorial committee, enough to vote for him, it seems likely that he will be among the high men at the polls in November.—Adv.

W. F. M. S. HELD FIRST MEETING OF YEAR—

The Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist church held the first meeting of the year at the home of the Misses Ada and Bess Decker, Thursday, Oct. 5th.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Fred Hobbs. All joined in singing "I Love to Tell the Story," and then repeated the Lord's Prayer.

The usual reports were given and business transacted.

The society being divided into units, the programs and plans were furnished by the unit leader, Mrs. Herbert Scott.

Those ill, were reported, also new members.

Mrs. Thompson read the devotionals which was intended to increase the interest in tithing.

Mrs. A. D. George sang a beautiful solo accompanied by Mrs. Covert at the piano.

Mrs. Albertine McKenney gave a very appropriate reading, responding to the encore.

The paper of the afternoon read by Mrs. Charles Klepinger in a most capable and interesting manner, was taken from the first chapter of the missionary study book, "Building with India."

The long chapter was reduced and made very interesting, and treated of the women of India, telling of their education, love of real music, religious beliefs and customs, experiences, and their national spirit.

At the close of the reading a mystery box contest was started with Miss Morgan and Mrs. Morris as captains.

The social hour followed and delicious refreshments were served by the unit.

Mrs. Herbert Scott, Unit Leader.
Mrs. Clea W. Bunnell, Unit Sec.

E. R. B. CLASS HELD MEETING—

The E. R. B. class of St. Paul's Lutheran Sunday School, taught by B. G. Robinson, met last evening in the parlors of the church, commencing with a 7 o'clock scramble supper, forty-five members and friends sitting down to a delicious supper. The decorations were in keeping with Halloween, being shamrock and corn stalks. In marching to their places at the table each one drew their fortune from a witch's kettle. The centerpiece was a large pumpkin basket trimmed with cranberries, with the letters "E. R. B." done in the same decorations which made a very unique centerpiece. The tables were also lighted with candles. Mrs. Barbara Skinner and little Miss Scott both celebrated their birthdays this week and each had a birthday cake with candles, before them. After the supper each guest marched up to a large corn shock and drew a string, on the end of which was a suitable and appropriate prize.

Following the supper the regular business meeting of the class was held. Plans for the coming year were outlined and discussed. Rev. Walter gave a very helpful and suggestive outline of the needs of the church. All went home feeling they had spent a very profitable evening. The next meeting of the class will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Sweltzer in Palmyra the first Thursday in November.

ST. JAMES AID SOCIETY MET WITH MRS. BURKETT WEDNESDAY—

The St. James Aid society met at the pleasant country home of Mrs. Luther Burkett Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 4th, with eleven members responding to roll call. Four guests and a number of little folks were also present.

The meeting was opened by all singing "Let the Lower Lights Be Burning," followed by prayer by the president. Another song, "Blest Be the Tie that Binds," was sung. Roll call and minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved, also the treasurer's report.

At this meeting plans for a chicken supper were discussed and it was decided to hold a fried chicken and noodle supper Tuesday evening, Oct. 10th.

The meeting was adjourned by all repeating the Lord's Prayer, after which the hostess served very tempting refreshments. At the close of the afternoon all departed having had a most enjoyable meeting.

FREEDPORTERS WED AT OREGON—

Mrs. Mary Lausch and Fred Jenkins, both of Freeport, were united in marriage Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in the parsonage of the Methodist church at Oregon, Ill. Rev. Freeman officiating. The couple were attended by Miss Mary Scanlon and Charles Wilson, also of Freeport. Following the ceremony, the bridal party returned to Freeport, where a wedding dinner was served to twenty-five guests at the home of the bride on East Stephenson street. Both Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins are employed at the Senate hotel and will continue to reside in Freeport.

MR. BOOS WAS SURPRISED ON HIS BIRTHDAY—

Dave Boos was surprised last evening at his home by a company of fifteen or twenty friends who called to assist him in celebrating his birthday. When he arrived home he found this company of friends ready to pass a merry evening with him. The evening was spent in playing bunks. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kramer won the first prizes and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hoberg the consolation prizes. Tempting refreshments were served and a happy evening spent. All the friends wished Mr. Boos many happy birthdays.

DIXON WOMAN'S RELIEF CORPS MEETING—

The regular meeting of the Dixon Woman's Relief Corps No. 218, Auxiliary to the G. A. R., will be held on Monday evening at 8 o'clock in G. A. R. hall. There will be initiation and items of interest from the National convention.

The card party held by Dixon Relief Corps on Wednesday evening was a very enjoyable and pleasant affair. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Nellie Bales and Ben Bunnell, with the consolation to Mrs. Laura Palmerly and Wm. Rhodes. Delicious refreshments were served.

SURPRISED ON ANNIVERSARY THURSDAY—

Mr. and Mrs. William Joynt, of North Dixon avenue, were pleasantly surprised on their fortieth wedding anniversary when a large party of children and grandchildren arrived to spend the evening with them, Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Joynt were genuinely surprised.

The evening was socially spent and delicious refreshments were served and all departed at a late hour wishing Mr. and Mrs. Joynt many such happy anniversaries.

CHEESE AND EGGS—

This is a nourishing and tasty breakfast dish.

Pare down thinly two ounces of melting cheese. Put in a pan with half a teaspoon of milk and a generous teaspoon of butter. Stir till boiling, add pepper, salt and a quarter of a teaspoon of made mustard. Break in two eggs and stir until the consistency of scrambled eggs. Spread on toast and serve immediately. This is sufficient for two persons.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE—

In Germany among the poorer classes if one cannot give a wedding gift to the bride one offers to pay for his own food at the nuptial feast.

Sometimes the ceremonies last several days, during which all guests remain at the bride's home.

As the bride leaves a pitcher of water at each door in the morning it is customary for the guest to drop in a coin for her.

IF YOU ARE WELL BRED—

You know that in this country a woman does not assume any title other than "Miss" or "Mrs." on her social card.

It is always better form to give in full the Christian name or names, as well as the surname.

"Mrs. John James Smith" is preferred to "Mrs. John J. Smith." Abbreviations of names such as "Dolly" or "Sally" are not advised on cards.

MISS SMITH RETURNS FROM PLEASANT TRIP—

Miss M. A. Smith has returned from a two months' visit in Boston, Montreal and Niagara Falls. Miss Smith went by the way of Montreal, and returned by the way of Niagara Falls, arriving in Dixon Saturday night.

MEN BLIND TO WOMAN'S SUFFERING.

How many men, think you, have any idea of the pain endured by women in their own household, and often without a murmur? They have no patience when the overworked wife and mother begins to get pale, have headaches, backaches, faint spells, or is melancholy and cannot sleep. There is help for every woman in this condition, as evidenced by the many voluntary letters of recommendation which we are continually publishing in this paper for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It will pay any woman who suffers from such ailments to give it a trial.—Adv.

In the stomach is a common disorder causing much discomfort.

Gas inflates the stomach, forcing it to crowd the heart and makes it beat irregularly. The lungs are crowded and because they cannot properly expand, the patient often takes a deep breath to get enough oxygen. These and other distressing symptoms are warnings that digestion is impaired and needs attention. Remember for every effect there is a cause. Let us explain how

CITIZENSHIP AND JOBS

A great surprise in the number of aliens seeking naturalization is reported. It is said that the increase is due largely to the fact that employers are tending to hire men who are naturalized citizens or who have taken steps to secure their papers.

Viewed from either side this is a healthy symptom. The alien who familiarizes himself with the language and institutions of America sufficiently to take out citizenship papers is not likely to be the matter rest here. He becomes steadily a more able and dependable employee than the one who remains steadfastly indifferent to self-improvement and as simulation. Employers see this, and not only favor the more progressive employee but lend their aid to public and private Americanization projects.

The alien, finding that citizenship is a boost to his industrial welfare and a protection and a lever in other lines as well, seeks the means to that end, for himself, his family and his friends, as the surest road to happiness and prosperity, and everybody benefits.

AMERICAN POLICY IN THE NEAR EAST

Secretary of State Hughes declares the true American point of view in connection with the menacing discord in the Near East. This nation, he maintains, stands with the allies to insure effectively "the liberty of the Dardanelles, the Sea of Marmora and the Bosphorus, as well as protection of the racial and religious minorities."

This is a just stand. Who can say when it might help the Turk, as it now helps the oppressed in the Near East? The minority is always entitled to protection in its natural, civil and spiritual rights, and also in individual rights, and the main sea-highways of the world should be international highways.

The Turk has effected a malleous combination. The pagan soviet of a Christian land joins hands with the Moslem. Foolish, the Mohammedan invades Europe and thereby invites future friction and bloodshed. Petty states of the Balkans take sides, like silly children, imagining that they may procure material gain through conspiracy.

This predicament is a most grave crisis. Christian and infidel are leagued against Christian. States in southern Europe are suspicious of one another. The allies have some concealed differences. India looks for a chance to break away from Great Britain. They are disturbing factors which point to the possibility, though it may be remote, of a world war far worse than the last.

THE DEMI-WETS

Is Illinois going to take a referendum vote on wine and beer in November? Attorney General Brundage rules that the secretary of state must put it on the ballot the requisite number of voters having petitioned for it.

The result of the voting, even should it be for wine and beer—which it should stand no chance of being—can not change the national constitution. Its only effect will be to indicate to congress just how the people of Illinois stand as to wine and beer.
The wine and beer people—now being called the demi-wets—profess to believe it will be overwhelming in their favor. The Telegraph believes it will be overwhelmingly the other way. It will be if every supporter of the eighteenth amendment records his sentiment.

The name "demi-wets" must have been coined by the wine and beer people for themselves. It does not really apply. It is misleading, and doubtless intended to mislead. There is no half way ground between the drys and the wets. The voter who does not vote to sustain the dry law as it stands votes for the wets. The liquor business is law-defying, criminal, from start to finish. The day—should it ever come—that this country legalizes wine and beer, it erects a smoke screen behind which every sort of alcoholic liquor will flow freely. A great many bootleggers and moonshiners are now being arrested, and punished daily. It will be almost impossible to apprehend them should this smoke screen be set up.

The whole liquor business, from brewer and distiller to dispenser, has made a record of lawlessness which can not be effaced nor forgotten. The purpose of driving the wine and beer wedge into the eighteenth amendment is to split the whole log wide open.

Of course the whole referendum proposition is a frame-up of the wets.
It is equally in order, to be sure, to have a referendum vote on the question of repealing the Ten Commandments. Now the Anti-Saloon league is advising dry voters to ignore the proposition in case it is put on the ballot. This strikes the Telegraph as

CLEANING UP THE WORLD

The Westfield, R. I., Sun prints a clean-up appeal which is a little out of the ordinary and deserving a wide attention. It states:

The finest evidence of good citizenship is a clean body, a clean house and a clean shop.

Clean up!
"Waste baskets should be made larger and storerooms smaller. Half the attics and basements in the United States are filled with—junk."

Clean up!
The drawers and pigeonholes of most desks are crammed with—junk!

The workrooms, storerooms and yards of the average factory contain enough junk to sink an ocean liner.
It occupies floor space that costs about 50 cents a square foot a year to maintain. It slows up production, gives the shop an appearance of disorder, lowers the quality of the product. "It might come in handy." Yes, but in the meantime it will eat you up in charges for rent and handling.

The employer who operates a clean, orderly shop is doing a public service because he is teaching his men by example the lesson of cleanliness.

Bathrooms! Blessed be the name of Adam Thompson who installed the first bathtub in his home in Cincinnati in 1842.

"If we would only make the world clean, all other problems would settle themselves."

There's an intimate, personal quality about that appeal which goes straight to the reader's heart. Almost every one knows of at least one attic and one set of drawers and pigeonholes that need to be cleaned up.

A clean house, a clean body and a clean shop this year, with a clean city, a clean world and a clean human race in the future. The picture is irresistible.

SALVAGING FRUIT

Citizens of Jefferson, O., noticed that a lot of fruit was going to waste in the neighboring orchards. "What a pity!" they said. And the farmers agreed with them. And unlike the people of many other communities,
they didn't stop there.

The citizens, working through the four village churches, organized a campaign to use that waste fruit for charity. They raised a little money and hired a big truck, formed a volunteer corps of harvesters and went around gathering up apples, pears and plums that otherwise would have rotted on the ground. The farmers gladly cooperated, and threw in a lot of vegetables. Then the load was taken to a neighboring city and turned over to the Associated Charities for distribution among the poor. This process was repeated until several pages had shared in the beneficence.

The good work hasn't stopped here. Originating in a purely philanthropic spirit, the movement has developed along parallel lines of nobility and thrift. If it was worth while to save fruit for charity, the anthropologists figured it was also worth while, when the immediate needs of the poor were cared for, to use fruit for business reasons.
Housewives who had given little thought to the matter began to figure how they could can and dry a lot of that waste fruit, obtainable at such low cost.

So it looks as if nearly all of the surplus fruit crop of that particular countryside will be salvaged for human use this fall instead of cluttering up the orchards and making a bad smell.

Here is real progress. Such community effort, widely copied and wisely developed, would make the country better off every year by millions of bushels of fruit.

Common Sense Ways to Keep Well.

CARE OF THE BABY

BY DR. R. H. BISHOP.

Silks and satins are not so important in the life of a baby as sunshine and sanitation.

Sunlight is absolutely necessary for the young child. The baby's room should be one, in all the house, which has the largest amount of sunlight.
Fresh air is quite as important. Pneumonia, bronchitis and colds are more often due to absence of fresh air than to exposure to it.

The temperature of the baby's room should be under absolute control. An open grate is an aid toward this.

It is often the case that babies are brutally over-dressed. This, of course, is done with the best of intentions,
trying to prevent illness, but it frequently produces just what it is designed to prevent.

Absolute cleanliness in everything that touches the baby's food is imperative. This means more than the ordinary cleanliness of a good housekeeper. The utensils used in preparing the food should be in good condition and preferably of enamel or aluminum. They should be boiled for at least 15 minutes before using. The hands and clothing of the person preparing the food should be spotless.

An abundance of pure water should be given the baby. It is safer to boil all water given the child and never to give him very cold water. It should be lukewarm.

The teeth begin to appear when the child is about seven months old. So many ills on the part of the baby have been assumed to be due to teething.
This is a big thing to be taken for granted. If the baby shows signs of unusual fretfulness or has vomiting spells, it is imperative to seek a physician's advice.

TWELVE TOES COMES TO LIGHT
FINGERS' AID

"Here's a magic bean, like the one Jack the Giant Killer planted."

Light Fingers was the tricky little

While rolling along the Milky Way he fell out of the machine and rolled off, down to the earth.

He got up and rubbed his head and tried to think what had happened.

"Oh, I know now!" he cried. "It's the Twins! The last thing I saw before I fell out of the sky was the Twins hopping into the automobile and driving off."

"First thing you know they'll be back at the Fairy Queen's palace in Fairytale and then won't I catch it, though!"

"I stole the automobile for Twelve Toes, the Sorcerer, who wanted it dreadfully, and now I've got to go and tell him that I lost it. Oh me, oh my! I bet he'll turn me into a worm or something, he'll be so mad."

Light Fingers went slowly, ever so slowly, to the cave where Twelve Toes lived, his head down and his finger in his mouth.

"Now what've you been doing?"
demanded Twelve Toes, striding out of his cave and looking as cross as a hungry bear. "Where's that magic automobile I sent you after?"

Then Light Fingers had to tell him the whole thing, how he'd fallen out of the automobile and how

BON VOYAGE

By Berton Braley

GOOD-BYE, old friend. You needn't look astounded
And ask me why I speak in accents glum.
My sorrow is exceedingly well-founded.
Things will be altered in the days to come,
Better love than heaps of golden pelf.
For you're engaged—a girl has come between us!
Oh yes, you think that all will be the same,
But it's not true, you're in the spell of Venus,
And life henceforth will be an altered game.

GOOD-BYE, old friend; no, I'm not jealous of you,
I didn't want to win her for myself;
I'm glad you've got so nice a girl to love you—
Better true love than heaps of golden pelf.
But this I know, I've lost my pal forever,
No matter how intensely you deny,
Friendship we'll keep, but comradeship—ah, never!
Old chum, good-bye!

YOUR friends are hers, she says? I do not doubt it.
She means it, too, I know; but none the less,
A wife's a wife, there's no two ways about it.
And though she'll want to aid your happiness,
Somehow she'll never look at me as you do,
She'll change you too, for that's a woman's trend,
Marriage, you know, is chum-ship's certain hoodoo,
Good-bye, old friend!

The FLAMING JEWEL

by ROBERT W. CHAMBERS
© 1922 GEORGE K. DORAN COMPANY

BEGIN HERE TODAY

The battle for the possession of the flaming jewel, which began two years ago when the gem was stolen from the royal jewel casket of the new bearded king, COUNTESS OF ESTHONIA, now centered in the disreputable "hotel" in the Adirondacks where MIKE CLINCH lived by breaking every law. With Clinch lived his beautiful step-daughter, the only good influence on his life, EVE STRAYER.

The flaming jewel was first stolen from the countess by QUINTANA, the great international thief. From him, in Paris, Mike Clinch stole the gem and brought it back to the Adirondacks. Now, at Clinch's dump, there arrived Quintana, seeking to regain the jewel, and also JAMES DARRAGH, who has sworn to restore the gem to the countess. Darragh, who is employed at the camp under the name of HAL SMITH, learns that Quintana's gang are going to try to secure the flaming jewel during the Saturday night dance.

Go on With the Story

CHAPTER III

By nine o'clock the noisy chicken supper had ended; the table had been cleared; Jim Hastings was tuning his fiddle in the big room; Eve had seated herself before the battered melodeon.

"They're off," remarked Clinch to Smith, who stood at the pantry shelf prepared to serve whisky or beer upon previous receipt of payment.

In the event of a sudden raid, the arrangements at Clinch's were quite simple. Two large drain pipes emerged from the kitchen floor beside Smith, and ended in Star Pond. In case of alarm the tub of beer was poured down one pipe; the whisky down the other.

Only the trout in Star Pond would ever sample that hootch again.

Clinch, now slightly intoxicated, leaned heavily on the pantry shelf beside Smith, adjusting his pistol under his suspenders.

"Young fella," he said in his agreeable voice, "you're dead right. You sure said a face-ful when you says to me, 'Eve's a lady, by God!' You oughta know. You was a gentleman yourself once. Even if you take to stickin' up tourists you know a lady when you see one. And you called the turn. She is a lady. All I'm livin' for is to get her down to the city and give her money to live like a lady. I'll do it yet. . . . Soon. . . . I'd do it tomorrow—tonight—if I dared. . . . If I thought it sure fire. . . . If I was dead certain I could get away with it. . . . I've got the money. Now! . . . Only it ain't in money. . . . Smith?"

"Yes, Mike."

"You know me?"

"Sure."

"You size me up?"

"I do."

"All right. If you ever tell any one I got money that ain't money I'll shoot you through the head."

"Don't worry, Clinch."

"I ain't. You're a crook; you won't talk. You're a gentleman, too. They don't sell out a pal. Say, Hal, there's only one fella I don't want to meet."

"Who's that, Mike?"

"Lemme tell you," continued Clinch, resting more heavily on the shelf while Smith, looking out through the pantry shutter at the landing, listened intently.

"When I was in France in a Forestry Regiment," went on Clinch, lowering his always pleasant voice, "I was to Paris one or two times before they sent us home."

"I was in the washroom of a caddy—a cleanin' up for supper, when dod-bang! into the place comes a-tumblin' a man with two cops pushing and kickin' him."

"They didn't see me in there for they looked the door on the man. He was a swell gent, too, in full dress and silk hat and all like that."

and a opy cloak and white kid gloves, and mustache and French beard.

"When they locked him up he stood stock still and lit a cigaret, as cool as ice. Then he begun walkin' around looking for a way to get out; but there wasn't no way."

"Then he seen me and over he comes and talks English right away: 'Want to make a thousand francs, soldier?' sez he in a quick whisper. 'You're on,' sez I; 'show your dough.' 'Them Filles has went to get the Commissaire for to frisk me,' sez he. 'If they find this parcel on me I do twenty years in Noumea. Five years kills anybody out there.' 'What do you want I should do?' sez I, havin' no love for no cops, French or other. 'Take this packet and stick it in your overcoat,' sez he. 'Go to 13 rue Quinze Octobre and give it to the concierge for Jose Quintana.' And he shoves the packet on me and a thousand-franc note.

"Then he grabs me sudden and pulls open my collar. God, he was strong."

"What's the matter with you?" says I. 'Lemme go or I'll mash your mug flat.' 'Lemme see your identification disc,' he barks."

"Bein' in Paris for a bat, I had exchanged with my bunkie, Bill Hanson. Let him look," thinks I; "if you fool me," says he, "I'll felly ye and I'll do you in if I takes the rest of my life. You understand?" 'Sure,' says I, me tongue in me cheek. 'Bong! Allez vous en' says he."

"How the hell," sez I, 'do I get out of here?' 'You're a Yankee soldier. The Filles don't know you were in here. You go and kick on that door and make a holler.' "So I done it good; and a cop opens and swears at me, but when he sees a Yankee soldier was locked in the washroom by mistake, he lets me out, you bet."

Clinch smiled a thin smile, poured out three fingers of hootch. "What else?" asked Smith quietly.

"Nothing much. I didn't go to no roo Quinze Octobre. But I don't never want to see that fella Quintana. I've been waiting till it's safe to sell—that was in that packet."

"Sell what?"

"What was in that packet," replied Clinch thickly.

"What was in it?"

"Sparklers—since you're so nosey."

"Where do you keep them?" inquired Smith naively.

Clinch looked at him, very drunk; "None o' your dinged business," he said very softly.

The dancing had become boisterous but not unseemly, although all the men had been drinking too freely.

Smith closed the pantry bar at midnight, by direction of Eve. Now he came out into the ballroom and mixed affably with the company, even dancing with Harvey Chase's sister once—a slender hoyden, all flushed and disheveled, with a tireless mania for dancing which seemed to intoxicate her.

She danced, danced, danced, accepting any partner offered. But Smith's skill enraptured her and she refused to let him go when her beau, a late arrival, one Charlie Berry, slouched up to claim her.

Smith, always trying to keep Clinch and Quintana's men in view, took no part in the discussion; but Berry thought he was detaining Lily Chase and pushed him aside.

"Hold on, young man!" exclaimed Smith sharply. "Keep your hands to yourself. If your girl don't want to dance with you she doesn't have to."

Some of Quintana's gang came up to listen. Berry glared at Smith.

"Say," he said, "I seen you before somewhere. Wasn't you in Russia?"

"What are you talking about?"

"Yes, you was. You was an officer! What you doing at Clinch's?"

"What's that?" growled Clinch, showing his way forward and shouldering the crowd aside.

"Who's this man, Mike?" demanded Berry.

"Well, who do you think he is?" asked Clinch thickly.

"I think he's gettin' the goods on you; that's what I think," yelled Berry.

"G'wan home, Charlie," returned Clinch. "G'wan, all o' you. The dance is over. Go peaceable, every one. Stop that fiddle!"

The music ceased. The dance was ended; they all understood that; but there was grumbling and demands for drinks.

Clinch, drunk but impassive, herded them through the door out into the starlight. There was scuffling, horse-play, but no fighting.

The big Englishman, Harry Beck, asked for accommodations for his party over night.

"Naw," said Clinch, "g'wan back to the inn. I can't bother with you folks tonight." And as the others, Salzar, Georgiades, Picquet and Sanchez gathered about to insist, Clinch pushed them all out of doors in a mass.

"Get the hell out o' here!" he growled; and slammed the door.

He stood for a moment with head lowered, drunk, but apparently capable of reflection. Eve came from the melodeon and laid one slim hand on his arm.

"Go to bed, girlie," he said, not looking at her.

"You also, dad."

"No. . . . I got business with Hal Smith."

Passing Smith, the girl whispered: "You look out for him and undress him."

Smith nodded, gravely preoccupied with coming events, and nervously himself to meet them.

He had no gun. Clinch's big automatic bulged under his armpit.

When the girl had ascended the creaking stairs and her door, above, closed, Clinch walked unsteadily to the door, opened it, fished out his pistol.

"Come on out," he said without turning.

"Where?" inquired Smith.

Clinch turned, lifted his square head; and the deadly glare in his eyes left Smith silent.

"You comin'?"

"Sure," said Smith quietly.

But Clinch gave him no chance to close in: it was death even to swerve. Smith walked slowly into the starlight, ahead of Clinch—slowly forward in the luminous darkness.

"Keep going," came Clinch's quiet voice behind him. And, after they had entered the woods—"Bear to the right."

Smith knew now. The low woods were full of sink-holes. They were headed for the nearest one.

SIDE-LIGHTS

Some Newsy Notes of Yesterday's Game.

New York, Oct. 6.—(By the Associated Press)—The crowd remained generally impassive until the last two innings. Veteran spectators who travel across the continent more to whiff the smoke of battle than to see a pitching duel pronounced it one of the most undemonstrative gatherings ever collected at a major sporting event.

The official time of the game was two hours and forty-one minutes. Monotonously slow for a league game and incredibly deliberate for a world's series contest. The spectators may have taken their glumness for the players who went through the game as if engaged in a very serious business.

The official weather recorder lifted his nose from a sheet of dusty records and said it was the hottest October day in New York's history.

To get a hand in the early innings.

a player almost had to duplicate the feat of Atlas and move heaven and earth. When Frisch made his awe-inspiring catch of Scott's terrific grounder near second the spectators loosened up. But they soon closed as quickly and as securely as the station gates when a fellow's running to catch a train.

It was a situation where the players had to encourage the crowd to get into the game and enjoy it, not the crowd urging the athletes to get in and play it.

Bambino (Ruth) was, as ever, a cynosure. When Barnes floated over his slow ball and it missed the plate the fans protested. They demanded that Ruth be given a chance to strike out.

Ward received a greater outpouring for his home run than Meusel did.

At that, when throats began to bark, it was apparent that it was a Yankee crowd. Being "at home" the Yankees hauled down the 1921 world champions banner of the Giants and substituted one reading "1921 American League Champions."

Umpire Hildebrand, behind the plate, received much attention from Shawkey, who disagreed that many of his pitches were wide. Seeing the futility of protest the Yankee twirler finally reduced chagrin to laughing and once he rippled with mirth and doubled in hysterical ridicule when the arbiter called "ball" twice in succession.

DEFERRED DIVIDEND SETTLEMENT

Bankers Life Insurance Co.,
Lincoln, Neb.

Gentlemen: My policy No. 9882 finished its twentieth period today. I took this policy at age 47. It was a deferred dividend, twenty pay policy. The annual payment to me was $241. I find that I paid $4,820.00. Today your Mr. Herick gives me your check for $6,224.95, the cash value. I find that this made me a net profit of $1,404.95, or $70.25 interest for every payment of $241.00 that I paid you. This means that you added $70.25 to every $241.00 I paid you and returned it to me all in a bunch and have carried my insurance for $5,000.00 from age 47 to 67.

You offered me a cash dividend of $2,874.15 and a paid up policy for $5,000.00, this makes my $5,000.00 insurance net cost $1,946.00, or $19.46 per $1,000.00, from age 47 to 67.

Gentlemen, I am very well pleased with this settlement and I want to thank you for the courtesies extended to me all through the twenty year period. You folks have policies on all my family. Some of them have matured and we all are certainly pleased with our connection with the Bankers' Life. Wishing you the best of success in the future, I am

Yours truly,
WM. R. GOY.

Fine Interest in Baptist Meetings

The special meetings at the Baptist church are increasing in interest and sermons of great value are being delivered by Evangelist E. A. Gilmore. The sermon Wednesday evening set forth with great force and clearness the three primary relations which Jesus Christ sustains to God, to the universe and to man, and the practical, moral and spiritual results which come from these relationships. There will be only two more meetings this week, tonight and Friday night. All are invited to hear these fine sermons, and to enjoy the spirited Gospel singing.

RECEIPTS OF TIED GAME YESTERDAY TO NEW YORK CHARITIES

Fans Angry When Game Was Called with Score a Tie.

New York, Oct. 6.—(By the Associated Press)—Giants and Yankees, having attempted to appease thousands of fans who weren't a whit satisfied when the second world series game was called by umpires in the tenth inning with the score tied 3 to 3, by giving the entire day's receipts to disabled soldiers and charities, returned today to the business of setting the championship.

The umpires said it was too dark to play when they called the halt, but there were few fans who agreed with them about the condition of daylight. It may have been dark; maybe Umpire Hildebrand was fooled by Coogan's bluff, which plays queer tricks with its shadows sometimes. Anyway, there was quite a difference of opinion in the matter.

Some three or four thousand of the fans couldn't forget their dissatisfaction. They had watched the Yankees fight a long uphill battle after Irish Meusel's homer into the left field bleachers had counted three runs for the Giants in the very first inning, and they wanted to see a finish. They couldn't understand why this wish should not be granted them.

Railed at Lands
They railed at the umpires until the umpires found cover, then, because there was no one else left on which to vent their feelings they turned to Commissioner Landis, the boss of all major league baseball, and they said to him many things. Commissioner Landis didn't have anything to do with calling the game. Having talked themselves out, they went home.

The owners of the clubs and the players didn't want anybody to think the game had been called deliberately so that they could play another game and take in more money, so after consultation with Landis they decided they wouldn't keep one red cent.

Scott vs. Hoyt?
And so the third game, with the Giants "at home" again, is on today. McGraw's men still have the edge, having won the first game, and today they will play behind Pitcher "Deacon" John Scott, who displayed some twirling cunning during the latter part of the season. Miller Huggins has selected Waite Hoyt, the youth who caused the Giants no end of worry in the 1921 series, as an effort to even things.

Ryan and McQuillan are in shape and ready to assist Scott, should the Yankee batters take too kindly to his delivery. Carl Mays, with his sub-waist style, warmed up yesterday when it looked as if Shawkey might not go so well, and he is allotted the same job today.

Casey Stengel, the Giant regular center fielder, probably will be replaced today by the youthful Cunningham. Stengel, after beating out a slow roller to Scott in the second inning of the second game, pulled up lame at second after Snyder had hit safely. McGraw removed him and Cunningham ran. It was reported this morning that Stengel may be out for a couple of days.

McGraw is excited over the showing of his pitchers.
"They said they weren't in a class with those of the Yanks. Nehf, Ryan and Barnes haven't been so awful, have they?"

Homer Helped Barnes
Jess Barnes had a lot to encourage him at the very start of yesterday's tie game, when Meusel's homer gave him three runs, but Jess had to be good in those ten innings to keep the Yankees down. They got back one of the three runs in their half of the first when Bancroft after making a good stop on Dugan's rap, heaved over George Kelly's head. Dugan went on to fourth, infelicitous and scored on Pipp's twister to Kelly, which went for a hit.

The Yanks second run came in the fourth when Ward lifted the ball over the bleacher sign boards for a trip around the bags. Doubles by Ruth and Meusel accounted for the tying run in the eighth.

Shawkey All to Good Shawkey's work after the first inning was all to the good. He was still a bit wobbly in the second and third, but pulled through, and for the remaining seven innings allowed only three hits, one of them being

Instant Quaker Oats The Quickest-Cooking Oats in the World

Quaker Oats now come in two styles—regular and Instant. Both have that super-flavor—the flavor that won the world. Both are flaked from clean grains only—just the rich, plump, flavory oats.

But in Instant Quaker the oats are cut before flaking. They are rolled very thin and partly cooked. So the flakes are smaller and thinner—that is all. And those small thin flakes cook quickly.

Instant Quaker cooks in 3 to 5 minutes. It is the quickest-cooking oats in the world.

In those two ways Quaker Oats excel. Say which you want, regular or Instant. But, if you love flavor, insist on the Quaker brand.

Bancroft's single to center in the tenth.

The newest concoction of dope has it that the Yankees, despite the one game lost, have an equal chance with the Giants to win the series. The argument for this is that the Giants have used two of their best pitchers and have won one game, while the Yanks have used two of their best pitchers, and lost one game. This leaves the Yankees with two pitchers rated among the top notchers, Hoyt and Mays, while McQuillan, Scott and Ryan, the remaining regulars of the Giant staff, are not regarded so highly.

It was discovered some years ago that common short-haired cats grew long, thick coats in cold climates.
